President Grieves

Washington, August 13.—A great sorrow fell upon the President of the United States to-day. He sat through seven innings of baseball and saw the home team lost. Late this afternoon President Tait and his aide, Major Rhonds, returned to the White House in the presidential nutomobile, depressed and silent. contemplating a score that read thierago. 5: Antionals, 3. Not even the rooting of the President of the United States could win for the Washington players, and the President said he really fell had about it. The President did not get to the game until the second inning, hecause he waited at the White House for news from the House, which passed the wool bill over his yeto.
